Woman on the run arrested for husband's murder

School Proprietor killed by wife, accomplices last year; accused spill the beans in a drunken stupor

Mysuru, Nov.19 (RK&BCT)- The City Crime Branch (CCB) Police have arrested a woman who is accused of being the chief conspirator in her husband's murder. The woman, identified as Radha, along with her accomplices, had smothered her husband Krishna, Proprietor of Chanakya School at Dattagalli in city.

Radha was arrested yesterday and today she will be produced before a Magistrate and the CCB team will seek four-day custody for interrogation. The Police have already arrested Manjunath and Manju and have taken them into their custody.

Victim Krishna

Accused Radha

Their custody period will end tomorrow and the Police will again produce them before a Court.

Sources said that Radha was on the run ever since the murder came to light in the last week of October. The first arrest was made on Nov. 8 when the Police rounded off Manjunath. The second arrest was made on Nov. 13. Radha was arrested by the team headed by Inspector Krishnappa based on her call details and Police sources said that she was hiding in a paying guest accommodation.

The murder took place a year back and the killers had smothered "school" Krishna to death on his own bed using a pillow. His wife Radha claimed that her husband died of heart attack. Believing her version, the relatives and the perpetrators of the crime cremated the body in a hurry.

The sordid tale of murder was revealed when, in a drunken stupor at a bar in Kuvempunagar, one of the accused bragged about the crime and how they managed to hoodwink the Police. Their conversation was overheard by one person sitting near their table who happened to be Krishna's relative.

Next day, he confronted Krishna's wife who feigned ignorance and denied that her husband was murdered. Unconvinced by her replies and evasive answers, the family members approached Kuvempunagar Police Station and filed a written complaint. The City Police Commissioner later handed over the case to CCB.

City's first dedicated hawker zone at Ashoka Circle

The dedicated hawker zone set up by the MCC at Ashoka Circle.

Mysuru, Nov.19 (OSR)- City's first dedicated hawker zone is all set to be inaugurated at Ashoka Circle, popular as Ballal Circle. The Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) has almost completed the construction of platforms with basic amenities for vendors (mostly food vendors) to set up stalls at the place.

The exclusive hawker zone is complete with drinking water, parking and proper waste disposal facilities. The delay in identifying and establishing a hawkers' zone is cited as the reason for frequent clashes between roadside vendors and civic authorities.

Most of the time, these vendors are forcibly evicted with the help of Police. While the MCC authorities feel that they are following Municipal Administration Laws for eviction, vendors complain of high-handedness and harassment.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Among several laws of flying in airplanes one says the strength of turbulence is directly proportional to the temperature of your coffee. However, spilling a hot beverage on your lap is a minor hazard compared to some of the more recent mishaps being reported in aviation circles, including one where a passenger on IndiGo Air was thrashed by ground crew.

In one of the more bizarre cases, American Airlines recently had to evacuate a flight at Raleigh-Durham airport after passengers complained of a nauseous odour that was initially attributed to a fellow traveller passing gas. But the airline gave him an all clear, attributing it to a mechanical issue on the plane, not flatulence.

In one particularly egregious case, a very tall traveller flying from Newark to Denver came equipped with a "knee defender," a $22 device that prevents the passengers in front from reclining their seat. The confrontation that ensued on board — including flinging of hot words and cold beverages — resulted in the flight being diverted to Chicago, where both passengers were deplaned. Nearer home, a Pakistan International Airline flight from Abu Dhabi to Rahim Yar Khan recently discharged its passengers in Lahore and asked them to take a bus to their destination — 624 kms away, and nine hours by road.

However, none of these incidents can hold a candle to the episode on a recent Qatar Airways flight from Doha to Bali. Conforming to the widely-held belief that there is no finer investigating agency in the world than a suspicious spouse, the wife of a slumbering husband used his sleeping hand to open his fingerprint-operated smartphone to find that he had been cheating on her. She erupted on board, and before someone could call for Dramamine for the Drama Queen, she proceeded to thrash the erring spouse, resulting in the plane having to make an emergency landing in Chennai.

A place for modern life allergic people

Arizona: A tiny off-grid community in Snowflake, Arizona has become a refuge for people suffering from multiple chemical sensitivity (MCS). Often referred to as Environmental Illness, (EI), the condition is a chronic disorder in which exposure to everyday chemicals and technology causes symptoms of varying intensity. Some sufferers of MCS claim that their symptoms coincide with exposure to chemicals and technologies around them, such as fragrances, synthetic fabrics, pesticides, and Wi-Fi. For this reason, sufferers have difficulty finding medical help for the disease and have to resort to alternative treatments. So, in 1988, one MCS sufferer took his health into his own hands and moved to the tiny desert town of Snowflake Arizona.Bruce McCreary, a former electrical engineer, left his home in Mesa after being nearly disabled from exposure to chemicals in the aircraft factory where he worked. Since the early nineties, 30 more MCS refugees have joined McCreary in Snowflake, making the town a sort of oasis for MCS victims.

Stereo Bicycles

Palermo: When it comes to bicycles, tuning options are rather limited, especially in the audio department, but a community of teenagers in Palermo, Sicily, has found a way to adapt car stereo systems complete with speakers, subwoofers, amplifiers and even car batteries on their cycles. Bike tuning has become a trend among music-loving teenage cyclists of Palermo, on the island of Sicily. They spend anywhere between a couple of hundred euros to over 1,200 euros to have their bikes converted into powerful sound systems on wheels. The typical setup of a tricked out stereo cycle in Palermo consists of a head unit on the handlebar, speakers and tweeters in the middle section of the bike, between the seat post and the handlebar, and amplifiers, subwoofers and car batteries in the back. According to a report by The Guardian, some of these tricked out cycles can put out over 1250W of sound power, enough to shake the windows of buildings and cars they pass. The police are often called to disperse gatherings of bike tuners, as the sound they produce is considered by many unbearable.

VOICE OF THE READER

This road also needs to be straightened

Sir,

Despite stiff opposition and protests from the concerned citizens of Mysuru, the government has gone ahead with the straightening of the curve on Hunsur Road near Jaladarshini.

But there is a more dangerous curve than this road a little after Damden Apartments towards Lakshmikanthanagar turn on the Outer Ring Road, which probably needs urgent attention by the government.

Anyone who takes this stretch will agree that it will feel like a roller coaster ride if one does not slow down. Local residents may be aware and slow down but what about new road-users and tourists? There is a need for straightening this road more than any other stretch in Mysuru.

If the government can go all out to straightening a curve which could have been left untouched, then they should also show concern to look for a solution for this stretch which has seen steady increase in vehicle density.

Man sentenced to seven years jail for killing wife six years ago

Mysuru, Nov.19 (KS)- The Seventh Additional District and Sessions Court Judge has sentenced a man to seven years imprisonment and has imposed a fine of Rs. 13,000 for killing his wife six years ago.

The deceased woman has been identified as Ameena Khatoon, while her husband who has been sentenced, has been identified as Tajmal Ahmed Khan.

Ahmed Khan had banged the head of his wife Ameena against the wall resulting in her death in Dec. 21, 2011.

Ameena got married to Ahmed Khan in 2005 and had two sons. But her life had become miserable due to Khan's frequent demand for money from her. Unable to bear the harassment from her husband, Ameena had attempted suicide in 2008 by consuming overdose of sleeping tablets.

City's first dedicated hawker zone

In the absence of clear-cut guidelines, hawkers regularly face the risk of being evicted during outbreak of water-borne diseases during summer.

MCC officials hope to inaugurate the dedicated hawker zone at Ballal Circle ahead of Swachh Sarvekshan, the annual survey of India's cities. They said that this hawker zone is the first among the three dedicated zones panned in city. A decision on the other two zones will be finalised soon.

The plan to construct dedicated hawker zones was mooted in 2004 and a six-member Committee was constituted to identify the zones after conducting a survey. In their earlier representations to the MCC, the hawkers said that they would prefer to conduct trade on the main roads near key commercial centres such as Sayyaji Rao Road, Gandhi Square, Ashoka Road and Dhanvanthri Road. But the MCC prevented them from carrying out business in these areas due to heavy rush and lack of space for free and safe movement of pedestrians.

There are over 3,500 hawkers in the city who set up shops after 6 pm and in the absence of dedicated hawking zones, they are spread out across areas including Bannur Road, Town Hall surroundings, Aziz Sait Nagar, Saraswathipuram, Ballal Circle, Vinaya Marga, Yoga Narasimhaswamy Temple Road, near Saraswathi Theatre, Vijayanagar Third Stage near Garudachar Layout, in front of Kuvempu Park at Kuvempunagar, Vijayanagar Water Tank Road, Kote Anjaneyaswamy Temple premises, Gandhi Square and near Mathrumandali Circle.

In its 2014-2015 budget, the MCC had earmarked Rs. 2 crore to identify suitable zones to create facilities for hawkers. The plan was to demarcate specified areas, earmark them for hawking and create separate platforms with basic amenities. Upgrading pushcarts, providing identification cards for vendors, and introducing health and life insurance schemes for them were part of the plans. However, the proposal was not implemented as some of the hawkers opposed the areas identified for hawking zones.

The civic body initially had tried to establish a food street on Valmiki Road but the Central Food Technological Research Institute objected citing security reasons as the area abutted its campus. Another attempt was made to shift hawkers close to the People's Park. This too was opposed as the proposed zone was next to a college. In 2012, the then District Minister S.A. Ramdas suggested the idea of collecting fee from vendors and issue them trade licences to conduct business legally. In all, 39 zones were identified. This proposal too failed to take off.

Kannada Meet to have foreigner's book stall

Mysuru, Nov.19- The three-day 83rd Akhila Bharata Kannada Sahitya Sammelana will feature a book stall run by a foreigner. Hendrik Hardeman, a 52-year-old Dane who has learnt Kannada staying at Gokulam in city for over five years, is all out to create a history of sorts by booking a stall at the Meet.

Hendrik, whose mother tongue is Dutch, has a special place for Kannada as he loves the language. Not missing any opportunity of attending Kannada Meets, Hendrik had taken part in the Sammelana held earlier at Madikeri, Vijayapura and Shravanabelagola. Apart from attending, he had participated in Poets' Meet and other sessions.

According to Hendrik, he does not skip any Meet as many precious and rare Kannada books may be available there.

Hendrik, who has a passion for Kannada, takes strong objection to some booksellers opting to sell English or Hindi works along with Kannada.

Hendrik, who knows to speak, read and write Kannada fluently, has learnt Kannada Grammar also. The Dane, who learnt Kannada without going to any school or classes, speaks Kannada so fluently that even a Kannadiga will be put to shame.

Taking note of Hendrik's love for Kannada, the District Administration rewarded him with District Kannada Rajyotsava Award this year.

Hendrik plans to sell small story books which he has written himself. Having profound love for Kannada, Hendrik who recently attended the 12th World Sudoku Championship in Bengaluru, which drew participants from many countries, distributed over 500 Kannada booklets, which he himself has scripted, to foreign participants free of cost.

These booklets too will find a place in his bookstall at the 83rd Akhila Bharata Kannada Sahitya Sammelana.

Indian Super League

NorthEast United, Jamshedpur involved in goalless draw

Guwahati, Nov.19- The goalless stalemate in the fourth edition of Indian Super League (ISL) continued for a second successive day as debutant Jamshedpur FC held North-East United FC to a 0-0 draw.

Jamshedpur FC coach Steve Coppell fielded both Sameehg Doutie and Trinidade Goncalves along with Izu Azuka as the lone striker upfront.

NorthEast United FC gaffer Joao Carlos Pires de Deus played Seminlen Doungel and Odair on the flanks with Marcinho playing just behind striker Danilo. Lalrindika Ralte played in the central midfield.

The home team was on the offensive from the word go and looked to build pressure in the opponent's box. NorthEast started the second half with equal intensity and hunger. Odair came close to scoring in the 55th minute from a corner but Paul denied him.

In the next three minutes, Danilo found himself one on one with Paul following a through ball from Lalrindika Ralte, but his shot went wide. Then came the first red card of the season as Andrey Bikey, playing against his old club NorthEast United, was given the marching orders.

The NEUFC though could not make use of the numerical advantage. Four minutes were added to the regulation time and there as another good chance for NorthEast United as Nazray cut it back to Paez. No defender was marking him, but still Paez could not find the target.

ZP members fume over delay in release of Government funds

Mysuru, Nov.19(US&PM) - The General Meeting of Zilla Panchayat (ZP) held at ZP auditorium here yesterday witnessed a furore by ZP members over non-release of Government funds which had incapacitated them to fulfil the promises made to the people.

Chairman of the Standing Committee for Social Justice Beerihundi Basavanna alleged that the members could not take up many works in their constituencies especially drinking water projects owing to fund crunch. He regretted that though action plans for drinking water projects were submitted to the government long ago, nothing has been approved so far.

ZP Member Pushpa Amarnath observed that their counterparts in Gram Panchayats were enjoying more power with good funds and hence termed it a pathetic situation.

With no immediate solution in store, the members asked ZP CEO P. Shivashankar to explore whether the funds sanctioned under Special Component Plan (SCP) and Tribal Sub Plan (TSP) could be diverted to the constituencies to take up immediate relief works. According to them the funds under SCP and TSP together was Rs. 36 crore.

Verbal clash: When JD(S) member S.R. Nandeesh targeted the Congress-led State Government for laxity in release of funds, Congress members objecting to that vociferously said that politics should not play spoil sport in development works.

That triggered a verbal clash with ZP President Nayeema Sultana intervening to defuse the situation.

Taxidermist Van Ingen case

SC asks CID to complete probe by March 31

Van Ingen

New Delhi, Nov. 19 - The Supreme Court on Friday granted the Karnataka's Criminal Investigation Department (CID) time till March 2018 to complete its probe into usurpation of the properties of world-renowned Mysuru-based taxidermist Edwin Joubert Van Ingen allegedly by a man, who claimed to be his adopted son.

A three-judge bench presided over by Justice Ranjan Gogoi allowed an application filed by advocate Joseph Aristotle on behalf of the CID for further extension of time to finish the investigation in an FIR lodged in March 2013 at Mysuru's Nazarbad Police Station by Van Ingen against Michael Floyd Eshwar.

"As prayed, time until end of March, 2018 is granted for completion of the inquiry/investigation," the Court said.

The Bench, also comprising Justices R.F. Nariman and Sanjay Kishan Kaul, rejected a plea made by senior advocate Mahesh Jethmalani for CBI probe into the matter. Jethmalani represented Eshwar, who declared himself to be the legal heir of the properties owned by Van Ingen.

In an application, Eshwar accused six persons including the then Mysuru Deputy Commissioner of Police of creating a "forged record". He also expressed apprehension that the investigation under the supervision of DGP CID would not be carried in fair, transparent and impartial manner.

Van Ingen, a British national, died a bachelor at the age of 101 on March 12, 2013.

WORD OF THE DAY

Vagarious

Meaning: Erratic and unpredictable in behaviour or direction.

Example: For Americans to have talked of launching ten million tons of shipping in one year would have seemed vagarious.
Paul P. Harris, "Convention Message from Rotary's Founder," The Rotarian, August 1918. Psychological experiments, more than anything else, have taught us how fallible is our reason, how vagarious are our processes, how tricky are our brains. Edward H. Smith, "Chemistry Furnishes Clues to Detectives," New York Times, December 19, 1926.
Origin: Vagarious comes from vagary, which traces to the Latin verb vagārī meaning "to wander." It entered English in the late 1700s.

THE ODD WORD

Congius

An ancient Roman liquid measure equal in modern terms to about 6 imperial pints.

IDIOM OF THE DAY

Cry Wolf

Meaning: Lying; someone who calls for help when they don't actually need it; Typically used to describe a person who frequently lies or complains about things when there are no real problems present.

Origin: The origin of this phrase is believed to be from Aesop, a Greek fabulist who is said to have lived from 620 to 560 BCE. He wrote a number of different fables known collectively as Aesop's Fables.
One of the stories credited to his name tells of a young boy who was given the responsibility of watching over some sheep for the night. The boy eventually grew bored with his assignment and thought it would be rather humorous if he pretended to be in danger, so he started shouting "wolf, wolf!" His plan worked, as the people nearby heard his cries for help and came rushing to lend their support, only to learn that it was all a silly ruse. After this repeated a few more times, the people wisened up and no longer responded to the boy's deceitful cries. Later on, a real wolf showed up, and now the boy seriously started to cry for help, but it was too late, because nobody would listen to him any longer. Indeed, when someone constantly lies, they lose the trust of others. Thus, the phrase 'crying wolf' is thought to have originated from this story.
